Fifty Years Married

Mr. and Mrs. William F. Parker, nee Goldsmith, were married in Andover fifty years ago, October 6, 1864, by the Rev. David C. Litchfield, resident pastor of the Baptist church. The marriage ceremony took place at the residence of the officiating clergyman in the historic "America house" on Main street, in which the late Rev. S. F. Smith wrote our National hymn, "America." Three children were born to them, two sons, Converse F. and Ralph G. Parker, and one daughter, Mrs. Elmer H. Shattuck, each of whom married and settled in Ballardvale. There are four grandchildren, Ruth E., Grace V., Marjorie E., and Converse G. Parker. Mrs. Parker was born in Andover, attended the public school, and entered Pynchard Free School in 1857. She is one of the few members of the Baptist church, now living, that united with the church on the occasion of its re-organization in 1858.

Of colonial ancestry, she is a representative of the fifth generation of her family name who have lived in Andover, and the seventh in Essex county. Her great grandfather was one of the pioneer settlers of Scotland district, owning a large tract of land, or, as "C. H. A." in Historical Andover puts it, "William Goldsmith is said to have owned from the Scotland schoolhouse to the Reading line, and west to Woburn street," on Preston Plains. Fort Goldsmith situated on the east and west side of Reading road is included in this territory. He was a veteran of the Revolutionary War, and one of the first volunteers to respond to the Lexington alarm, April 19th, A. D. 1775, and marched in Capt. Henry Abbot's company to Cambridge. A few months later his oldest son, Jeremiah, a lad of sixteen years, enlisted in Andover, December 9, 1775, as a drummer in Capt. John Abbot's Co., and remained in service throughout the war. Mrs. Parker is, therefore, a real grand-daughter of the American Revolution. Both Revolutionary soldiers are buried in the South cemetery.

CHAMPIONS OF DISTRICT

Andover Royals Defeat All Comers During Past Season. Record of Teams and Players

The season the Royals baseball team of Andover just closed was the most successful ever enjoyed and the consistent playing during the year gives the team plenty of ground for claiming the championship of the Lowell and Lawrence district. The Royals met and defeated the best team in the district, the C. Y. M. A. of Lawrence, being the only aggregation to split even, the rubber game not being played off. The strong Newburyport A. C. was beaten 2 to 1 in the first game, the Royals losing the second in a ten-inning contest. They also captured the series with the Centipedes and Diamond Springs and won the money from the J. J. Hurleys.

The team was well balanced and won its games through the effective pitching of Red Stack and the timely hitting of the players. Stack's pitching in many games was unhittable and he also fielded his position cleverly. He was greatly assisted by Duncan, whose clever work behind the bat and timely hitting were great factors in the Royals' record. The infield was fast, and G. Collins, Lund, Porter, Dushame, and E. O'Connell pulled off many clever plays. Bowman was the main strength in the outfield and made many brilliant catches. He was also the team's heaviest hitter, although ranking low in the averages. The acquisition of Delaney for the outfield toward the middle of the season, strengthened the team materially, his batting helping to win many games. Manager Ray Cole has done a great deal of hard work in keeping his team together and the fans appreciate his endeavors in giving the town a championship ball team.

The season's record follows:

Royals 7, Shawlights of Lowell 11

Wedding

TURNER-JENKINS

A very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Jenkins on Saturday, October 10, when their only daughter, Mary Palmer, was united in marriage to Roy W. Turner.

The ceremony which was performed by Rev. E. Victor Bigelow, took place beneath a beautiful arch of autumn leaves.

Among the guests of honor were the three grandmothers of the contracting parties—Mrs. Elizabeth Kimball of Boxford, and Mrs. Sarah Mason and Mrs. John B. Jenkins of Andover.

The happy couple were the recipients of many beautiful gifts.

After a wedding trip among the White Mountains Mr. and Mrs. Turner will be at home in North Reading.

Abbot Academy Notes

Dr. Clarence A. Barbour, who is now one of the international secretaries of the Y. M. C. A., spoke to the school on Saturday evening. The week before, Miss Mabel Hayward gave a stereopticon talk on the International School for Girls in Madrid. An interesting scheme for Christmas giving was presented to the girls one morning last week by Miss Olive Wilson, treasurer of the Santa Claus Mail, who is visiting in town.

Mothers' Club

The Andover Mothers' club held a meeting Friday afternoon, October 9, at the Samuel Jackson school. Miss Whiting, domestic science teacher in the schools, told of her work with the girls in an interesting manner.

The members of the club will sew for the Red Cross society this afternoon at the Guild House. The club accepted an invitation to attend the Donation party held by the Father and Mothers' club of Boston, at their farm, Grove street, Reading, on October 21. Those attending will go on the Reading car leaving Andover hill at 2 o'clock. Contributions of food stuffs, clothing, and household supplies, are solicited. This farm home cares for the sick children of Boston.

It is desired that a large number attend both of these meetings. Attention is called to the change of day of meeting. The meeting will be held the first Wednesday of each month, instead of the first Friday, as heretofore.

During the social time tea and cake were served by Mrs. Charles Buchanan, chairman; Mrs. James Walker, Mrs. Alex. Crockett, Mrs. Edward Cole.

A Week of Fires

An alarm from Box 62 yesterday morning called the fire department to a blaze in the cellar of the Bailey school. The auto truck responded and made the run of five miles in about twelve minutes getting there just in time. An over-heated furnace was the cause. The furnace is old and heats up easily and it set fire to the wooden air shaft. Mrs. Morrill, the teacher, noticed the smoke and got the children out quickly by the fire drill and then ran to the nearest house to telephone. Men from neighboring farms noticing the smoke hurried to the scene and kept the fire down until the chemical arrived. They had used all the water in the well when the truck was heard coming and the fire was soon under control. All the desks and other furniture had been removed but the building itself suffered little damage. Loss was estimated approximately at $150.

Yesterday afternoon two brush fire signals were rung in within an hour of each other, one at Freeman Abbott's and the other at Fred Gould's place. The fire at Gould's has been burning for some time, being located in a peat bog, and on Wednesday an alarm was rung in calling the department down there. As has been said in other papers nothing but a good soaking rain will put out these fires, especially those which creep along under the brush and burst out in unexpected places.

Judge Bell Presides

The Essex County Congregational club held the regular October meeting Monday evening in the United Congregational church, Lawrence. There was a large attendance and the meeting was a very pleasant one for all. Judge Charles U. Bell, president of the association, presided at the meeting in his usual efficient manner. Rev. Robert W. Beers, Judge Wilbur E. Rowell, and Judge Newton P. Frye addressed the members. Each struck an interesting strain that held their hearers attentive and at the conclusion of their talk each was liberally applauded. After the business meeting all sat down to a bounteous supper that was prepared and served by the ladies of the church. The church choir also furnished pleasing music during the evening. A delegation from Andover churches attended.

Natural History Society

Bradford H. Scudder of Taunton, secretary of the Massachusetts Fish and Game Protection Association, was in town last Friday and with some of the officers of the Andover Natural History society went over the ground which they soon plan to convert into a game sanctuary. Mr. Scudder was very favorably impressed with the location and considers it one of the best adapted sites for a game preserve he has ever seen. At one of the winter meetings of the Natural History society he will give his lecture, "The Conservation of Wild Life," illustrated by the stereopticon.

T. W. T. Elected Officers

A business meeting of the T. W. T. club was held on Thursday evening, October 8, at the home of Miss Helen Holt. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Gladys A. Hill; vice-president, Grace Stevens; secretary and treasurer, Emma Holt.

The next meeting will be held at the South church on Tuesday evening, October 20. It is hoped that as many as possible of the members will be present.

Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the corporation of the Andover Home for Aged People will be held at the Home, 4 Pynchard avenue, next Tuesday evening, October 20, at 7.45 o'clock, for the election of officers, and any other business which may legally come before it.

IDA M. McCURDY, Clerk.

Phillips Academy Notes

About the twenty-seventh of this month trials will be held for those taking track at present. Those who qualify will be eligible for the inter-class meet, which comes the thirty-first of October. Ribbons will be awarded to all those securing first or second places on the later date.

Last Sunday evening the Society of Inquiry held the first open meeting this fall. These open meetings will be held from time to time throughout the year and will be conducted entirely by the student body. The first meeting was very well attended and shows that the fellows are really getting into the spirit of the thing, when they will come without requiring some sort of special attraction to draw them. The interest displayed so far this year speaks well for the general attitude of the school and for the amount of work that can be done during the year.

Pasteur Treatment by State

Acting in accordance with the stipulation of the United States Surgeon General, Dr. William C. Hanson, State health commissioner, will provide Pasteur treatment in Massachusetts. The work will be done with the cooperation of the laboratory of the Harvard Medical School, and the State physician will be assisted by physicians of the school.

Eight persons are known to have been bitten by a mad dog that ran through Cambridge and the West End last week Thursday, and others may have been victims. Three of the persons have applied for treatment to the State Department and four to the Boston Board of Health. Efforts are being made to locate the eighth person. One case is serious and this will be sent to the New York Pasteur Institute. The treatment in Massachusetts will be the same as that in New York, but, as one case is serious, Dr. Hanson thinks it best to send it to New York, where the physicians have had greater practice. This is the first set of really serious cases in the State.

This is the season when dog bites are most prevalent as dogs run about more. Dr. Hanson says that in any dog bite the physician should use fuming nitric acid by means of a glass pipette as soon as possible, and cover every minute portion of the wound as a precautionary measure. Then, if it developed that the dog had rabies, this would help the Pasteur treatment.

Similar treatment is given in Baltimore, Washington—where the public health service cares for all cases in the District of Columbia—and California.

Dr. Hanson will send circulars to the chiefs of police and animal inspectors throughout the state, instructing them how to act in cases. The circular advises the use of the fuming nitric acid by the physician in treating a bite wound and states that, unless the dog is extremely violent it should not be killed, because if killed early in the course of rabies microscopic examination of the dog's head may fail to show evidence of the disease. The animal should be kept under observation and if ten days elapse and no symptoms appear, the Pasteur treatment is unnecessary. Should the dog show symptoms it should be chloroformed or shot—so as not to destroy important regions of examination—and the head should be sent to the local laboratory or to the Bureau of Animal Industry, State House, for examination. All cases of rabies are now required by law to be reported to the State Department of Health through the local health board and every case of dog bite should be reported for investigation.

BRITISH FLEET
ROUTS GERMANS
FROM TRENCHES

Ships Get Correct Range With the Aid of Aeroplanes

INVADERS' PASSAGE TO FRENCH PORTS BLOCKED

Rumors of Bombardment of Ostend to Drive Invaders Out—Hostile Forces Alternately on Offensive and Defensive, With but Slight Gains by Either Side—Issue Appears to Depend on Battle Raging in Southwest Belgium and Northern France—Belgians Continue to Hold Their Ground Against Violent Charges—Allies Said to Be Making Another Attempt at Turning Movement—Russians Claim Big Victory

British warships have been riddling the Belgian coast of the unwelcome gray army, while British, French and Belgian troops have been holding in check the continuous assaults of the invaders delivered at points further inland.

Reports have been received in London that nowhere within five miles of the coast have the Germans been able to mass men in great numbers. The moment that work begins on trenches to shelter the Germans, aeroplanes hover over the diggers, dropping explosives among them and, a more important mission, enabling the British ships to get the correct range.

Battleships and cruisers within firing distance of the shore, and especially the renamed monitors bought by the government from Brazil, quickly made the trenches uninhabitable. Reports have been heard that even Ostend has been shelled in an effort to drive the enemy out of the town.

But whether the famous watering place has been shelled or not it is generally known that very few Germans have been there for several hours. It is also rumored that Brugues, a few miles to the east, has been evacuated by the invaders.

Invaders' Plans Checked
The presence of the British warships has greatly interfered with the German plan of driving a passage to the channel ports of France straight through the allied armies. Further inland, however, the gray army has been battering violently against the defenders of the last bit of Belgian territory still held against the foe.

Desperate fighting continues about Lille, extending as far as La Bassée, and in southwestern Belgium the ruin spread by the almost hand-to-hand battling is beyond any description in words. It is one of the hardships of the French and Belgians that they are compelled to fire upon their own towns and cities where the Germans have taken possession.

The fighting Wednesday was much more concentrated than on Tuesday. From Nieuport to Lille the hostile forces alternately were on the offensive and defensive, but the actual results gained to either of the deadlocked armies were slight except along the shore, where the British fleet has taught the invaders that not even when they reached the sea had they escaped the dangers of a flanking movement.

Halt in Offensive Movement
Elsewhere along the battle line in France and on the edges of German soil held by the French there was little except artillery duels to feature the day. The widespread attempts of the Germans to open an offensive on a long line seems to have been abruptly abandoned, while at the same time the French offensive directed against Lorraine and Alsace has also been halted. Unless an unforeseen blow is being prepared secretly, the issue seems now to depend upon the battle raging in southwest Belgium and on the hostile lines in France between Arras and Lille.

Whether the Germans have made any progress in mounting their great guns near Belfort or whether the French have further endangered the invaders' hold upon the Meuse at St. Mihiel are not revealed by the meagre bulletins that have come from the fighting zone.

As has been the case throughout the week, the Germans have striven in vain to attain positions that would enable them to push forward against Dunkirk, Calais and Boulogne.

Courageous Belgian Army
British, French and native Indian soldiers have done their part in holding back the human tide, but the greatest glory belongs to the remnants of the Belgian army, lauded by Berlin and London for their heroic fighting after weeks of struggle that might well have daunted the stoutest hearted.

Behind the Yser they have held their ground against charges of the Germans that have been as determined and as persistent as any made during the whole course of the war. Wherever they have yielded ground they have regained it, and they occupy the same positions assigned to them to defend after they retreated out of Ostend and joined the British and French.

The resistance of the Belgians and the success of the British ships in clearing the coast is said to have resulted in still another attempt by the allies to make the turning movement that was previously balked by the Germans in northern France.

Allies Taking the Offensive?
Rumors are persistent that this advance has become so marked that the Germans are being driven well back of Nieuport until they are now almost in the suburbs of Ostend. These stories cannot be confirmed, but it seems probable that today will reveal the fact that it is now the allies and not the Germans who are taking the offensive in this theatre of the war.

One of the interesting sidelights of the fighting shows that the French have unwittingly aided the Germans in securing a strong defensive position in France. It is stated that the invaders have found prepared as though for warfare a great ditch sixty miles in length, extending from Froye to Arras. This is the uncompleted Grand Canal du Nord, into which water has not yet been turned. It is so deep and so well sheltered that enormous bodies of troops can march in safety to any point on their line that is seriously menaced. Why the French did not mine this tremendous excavation is one of the puzzles of the war.

Situation in the East
In the east Russians claim a decided victory over the Germans north of the Piltza river, but this is unconfirmed from Berlin. In the immediate vicinity of Warsaw, about Przemysl and in East Prussia, it seems fair to assume that the hostile forces have not been able to make noteworthy advances.

The bombardment of the Austrian port of Cattaro continues daily, and a portion of the Austrian fleet has now been driven into the landlocked harbor. The harbor forts are being slowly but effectively reduced by the fire of the French and British ships.

Enormous Casualties
Two interesting casualty estimates were included in the day's gist of dispatches. One of these came from Berlin, where a military expert places the losses of the allies—French, Russian and English—to date as 750,000.

The latest British casualty announcement shows that nearly one-fourth the field force sent to France has been wiped out. No recent report has come from Berlin, although until a few weeks ago losses were given out regularly. It has been impossible to get any statement of French or Russian losses at any time.

Activity in the Balkans
Much activity is manifested in the Balkans. The Young Turks, according to Rome, are trying to get the Albanians to "attack Serbia. Italy wonders whether or not to occupy Avlona, and is of the opinion that the "Kiprotis," who are seeking control of Albania, are really Greek soldiers, disguised as irregulars.

Turkey has forbidden foreign warships to enter the gulf of Smyrna, and the possibility that Turkey may plan to start hostilities grows stronger with the announcement that two submarines are on the way to Constantinople to reinforce its naval equipment.

ALL UNDER SUSPICION
Austrians and Germans Are Being Rounded Up in England

Austrian and German subjects of military age who, since the beginning of the war, have been allowed their liberty in England unless they resided under some suspicion, are to be interned in detention camps.

The police in many English cities are arresting hundreds of men between the ages of 17 and 65 years and sending them to camps in different parts of the country.

This action of the government is necessitated, it is stated, because of the facilities offered German spies to enter the country with Belgian refugees on the pretense of being Belgians. No distinctions are being made.

Wealthy bankers and merchants are receiving the same treatment as are small shopkeepers and waiters. Those who failed to register or contravened any of the rules under which they were allowed to reside in their own homes are being prosecuted.

STILL ON THE JOB

German Cruiser Emden Gets Away With Six More British Vessels

The German cruiser Emden has again been sinking British steamers, this time at a point 150 miles northwest of Coochin, British India, according to a report received by the British admiralty from Colombo, Ceylon.

She has sent to the bottom the British steamers Chilkana, Trollus, Henmohr and Clan Grant and the dredger Pomrabble, bound for Tasmania. The British steamer Exford was captured by the Emden.

The Emden up to the present time has to her credit the sinking of fourteen British steamers and the capture of three other vessels flying the Union Jack. The operations of the Emden have extended along the entire eastern coast of India from Calcutta to Colombo.

PROTEST FROM GERMANY

Alleged Cruelties by French Sharpshooters and Regular Troops

The German government has sent a formal protest to France and to neutral nations concerning alleged violations of the rules of the Geneva convention by the French sharpshooters and regular troops.

It is declared in this protest that the French have killed or mutilated wounded German soldiers; that they have fired on ambulances filled with wounded and bearing the Red Cross flag; that they have invaded German hospitals, robbed the hospital staff and stolen the hospital equipment; that they have fired on German doctors who were gathering or attending to the wounded, killing some of these medical men and taking others captive, and that they have captured a German field clergyman whom they treated as a common criminal.

AIRCRAFT BROUGHT DOWN

German Taube and Zeppelin Fall Before British Warships

The Press association announces at London that it has learned from a reliable source that the British warships which have been co-operating with the allied left wing in Belgium brought down a Zeppelin and an armored Taube aeroplane off the Belgian coast.

Whether the aircraft were completely destroyed or are prizes of war is not stated.

HAMILTON IS KILLED

Prominent British General Falls or Battleship in France

A casualty list of the British expeditionary force in France reports the death of Major General Hamilton.

MAJOR GENERAL HAMILTON

Hamilton commanded the third division of the British field troops in the vicinity of Mons. He was born in 1861. He served in the Egyptian and South African campaigns and in 1900-02 was military secretary to Lord Kitchener, who at that time was commander-in-chief of the British forces in South Africa. He was also military secretary of Kitchener when the latter was commander-in-chief in India.

A GENERAL SURVEY OF THE WAR IN EUROPE

The Japanese navy department announces the occupation for military purposes of strategic importance the islands in Marienne, Ladron, Marshall, East Caroline and West Caroline archipelagos.

The chief constable of Brighton, Eng., has ordered all German and Austrian subjects to leave that town within a few days. No exceptions will be made in the order.

The shortage of food in Brussels is very serious. The supply of flour has become exhausted and there is great need that it be replenished immediately. The German government has disclaimed responsibility for the food shortage in Brussels and is itself said to show no disposition to furnish food to the Belgian capital, but is willing that provisions should go forward by way of Holland and Antwerp.

According to a telegram from Berlin, the Turkish government has requested the Oecumenical patriarch, the head of the Greek Orthodox church, to leave Constantinople.

Orders went out from militia headquarters at Ottawa to the various district centres to proceed at once with recruiting for the new Canadian expeditionary force.

Paul Leroy-Beaulieu, the French economist, estimates that each of the greater belligerents is spending an average equivalent to $200,000,000 monthly.

The burgomasters in the leading Dutch towns have issued proclamations announcing that the German government has granted permission for all Belgian refugees to return to their homes in Belgium. The only reservation is that men liable for military service will be considered prisoners of war if they return.

Queen Elizabeth of the Belgians is with her husband at the headquarters of the Belgian army and is his constant companion except when King Albert approaches the firing line to encourage and direct his troops.

At a cabinet council at Rome Premier Salandra assumed the foreign office portfolio, formerly held by the late Marquis di San Giuliano, and will retain it throughout the war.

Serious anti-German rioting occurred in the Deptford borough of London. Several shops conducted by Germans were wrecked by crowds and one shop was set afire.

SUNK IN FIGHT
OFF HOLLAND

German Flotilla of Destroyers Smashed by British Ships

ATTACK ON HAWKE AVENGED

Casualties of Defenders of Slightest Character, While Invaders Lose Many Men—England Thinks Result of Engagement Forebodes Ultimate Fate of German Fleet

The crew of the British cruiser Hawke, against which a German submarine launched its bolt of death from beneath the waves of the North sea, has been quickly avenged, for a British cruiser and her accompanying flotilla of destroyers sunk four German destroyers off the estuary of the Ems river.

The cruiser was the Undaunted, commanded by Captain Fox, who was in command of the cruiser Amphion when she was sunk by a German mine on Aug. 6, and the United Kingdom is rejoicing that it was he who has more than evened the score.

With the Undaunted were the destroyers Lance, Lennox, Legion and Loyal. So far as is known only thirty-one Germans survive the action, and they are those whom the British rescued and have made prisoners of war.

The British casualties were only one officer and four men wounded. The cruiser and the destroyers were only slightly damaged.

How many lives were lost when the Undaunted and the destroyers sunk the four German destroyers is not known. The larger type of German destroyer carries a crew of about eighty-five men, the older type being manned by about fifty-five men and officers.

The engagement of the British and German vessels was marked by brilliant fighting. The Undaunted and her flotilla of destroyers were on patrol, off the coast of Holland. The German destroyers offered battle and when they engaged the men served their guns in fine fashion, but they were no match for the close shooting of the British vessels. In a few minutes the engagement was decided, and the British warships rode the North sea almost unscathed, while the enemy's vessels had gone to the bottom with almost all on board.

It is believed that the movement was not entirely in reprisal for the loss of the Hawke, but was also meant to put something of a check on the activities of the Germans engaged in cutting down the British fleet. The result of this engagement, all England believes, foreshadows the result of the battle when the German fleet emerges and engages with the British fleet on the open waters of the North sea, an action for which all England is praying.

The Hawke, a vessel of 7150 tons, under command of Captain Williams, was sunk in the North sea, the graveyard of six other warships which were the victims of German torpedoes. It was only bad aim on the part of the German gunner which saved the Hawke's sister ship, the Thesusus, and the doubling of the disaster, for that vessel, too, was attacked, but she escaped.

The exact complement aboard the Hawke has not been announced, but in ordinary times the men numbered about 550. According to one report she had only 400 aboard. Whatever the number, only fifty-two men were saved and there was not a single commissioned officer among them. The loss of life is thus placed at 248.

Japanese Cruiser Sent to Bottom by Mine in Kiauchau Bay

Tokio officially announces the destruction of the Japanese cruiser Takachihio by a mine in Kiauchau bay.

This is the most important naval loss sustained by the Japanese since they began war against Germany in the Far East. Only one officer and nine men out of a total complement of 357 are known to have been saved. The cruiser was steaming through the bay to take a better position for the bombardment of the German forts.

Progress

We presume that Andover takes another step toward truly metropolitan greatness when it becomes possible to lift the telephone receiver from the hook and have the connection made in the central office. The official announcement is made that this new system will be a reality on Sunday next, and inasmuch as it marks progress and greater efficiency in public service, we may all rejoice. It isn't very many years ago that the number of subscribers in the Andover exchange covered less than a page in the telephone directory. Today it takes a little over four pages of finer and more condensed type to list those in Andover who make use of this service; it is indeed today an indispensable part of the daily life of active people. As much improved as the new system will be over the old, unless we are very greatly mistaken, there are many things yet to be done by the telephone systems of this country if they would serve the public as it is possible for the public to be served under the most recent and advanced inventions.

Speaking of inventions, how proper it is that we should pay tribute to that wonderful genius, who invented electric light thirty-five years ago this week. In these days of greater economy we are not sure that the advice to "use more light" can be properly passed along by one who appreciates the full necessity for economy, but certainly we may all of us, whether we use more or less light, have a great respect for the genius and wonderful inventive skill of Thomas A. Edison, who has probably given more to the world in a scientific way than any other one man. Whether we use more light or not it is certain that the people of the present day use better light than ever before in the history of this country.

Editorial Cinders

The opening of the Abbot Infirmary marks the official recognition of one of the latest and most valuable gifts to Abbot Academy. The building is simple and has little of the waste ornamentation that is so frequently made a part of the cost of such service, but its interior has been cared for with the most painstaking interest to cover the most exacting details. Those friends who have been so generous for many years to the school will take a great deal of satisfaction in the results of their labors, for the institution ranks among the very best in the country as a young ladies' finishing school, with physical equipment and intellectual leadership going hand in hand.

The Red Cross movement has a strong appeal and it is not going unanswered here in Andover. Already, according to the report of Mr. Ripley, the full amount has been raised which is necessary to make for a complete success. This doesn't mean that anyone is barred from doing something in this very worthwhile work. There are many avenues in which money can be used for this particular cause with a guaranty of results that will bring to the givers large satisfaction. The war promises to be long and to bring great hardship, a hardship not yet even suggested by present conditions. The giving now is timely, but there can't be too much of it if the tremendous call bound to come is to be anywhere nearly answered.

Mr. Boutwell's Position

Mr. Editor:

I read with considerable interest your criticism of my last communication. I have no objections to your criticizing it; if it wasn't worth criticizing it wasn't worth writing. I want to say that you entirely misunderstand me when you say that it was a studied effort to prove to myself why I am a Progressive; for I was in sympathy with the Progressive cause as far back as when the Insurgent movement in Congress arose. So that when the Progressive party was organized I very naturally adopted its standards. In regard to the second criticism, if the voters think the analogy holds true, I concede it to be their right and privilege to apply it to the Representative contest. I understand through friends that my communication has caused people to say that I don't know where I stand. That my ambition has led me to make statements for political effect. As to the first, I have nothing much to say. People who know me well enough to have a correct opinion know better. As to the second, I will not deny that I have an ambition to represent the voters of the district. Neither will I deny that I hoped that what I said might bring me some votes by letting voters know where I stood, and also help to allay any prejudice which exists because of party alignment. But I want to assert most emphatically that any selfish interests I had in mind were subordinated to a sincere desire for service. Although some statements I made might have led some to think I was hedging I thought I qualified them enough to satisfy any reasonable man. If by any chance I should be elected I should try to forget, so far as would be practical, that I am a Progressive and try to represent the best moral and economical interests of the town and state. With this explanation I am willing to leave myself in the hands of the voters. Whatever the result I will have no criticism of a single voter, and no rankle in my heart towards any. Instead I will endeavor to cherish good will towards every citizen of my native town in common with all mankind.

EDWARD W. BOUTWELL

Colonial Theatre Notes

The management at the Colonial theatre announces a fine program for next week and hopes to interest and entertain the people of Andover with at least one of the great variety of films which have been contracted for.

Starting tonight one of the greatest pictures for children ever produced will be the star attraction. It is entitled "Jesse of the Mountains" and children take all the parts of the actors. This is a four-reel film.

On Monday and Tuesday the fifteenth episode of the "Million Dollar Mystery" will be shown and this is said to be the best of the series.

"The Castaways," a thrilling story by Jules Verne, will be the feature for Wednesday only. Those who have read the book will take great delight in seeing the story illustrated.

Thursday will be a big day at the Colonial. There will be a matinee at 2.15 and the evening shows will start at 6.45 and 8.15. The feature will be "John Barleycorn." This is a great temperance picture and has been endorsed by all the leading religious societies of the country.

Manager Warden announces that he has purchased the interest in the theatre held by Everett Hilton and in the future the entire duties of proprietor and manager will be performed by him. He wishes to assure the public that only first-class pictures will be shown.

The Liszt Recital

Next Tuesday, October 29, comes the lecture-recital by John Orth, pupil and interpreter of the great master Liszt. He will come to the South church and give a most pleasing entertainment, one out of the ordinary in many ways.

Being associated as he was with the famous musician, and being a composer of note himself, his rendering of the varied program given below will be a rare delight to those who go to hear.

Tickets are now being sold at the low price of 25 cents for the entertainment which deserves a large audience. Time, 3.45 p.m.

Liebestraum, Love Dream in A flat
Polonaise, in C minor
Feux Follets, Fireflies, Etude d'Execution
Transcendental
Consolation, in E
Polonaise

The Brookline Townsman has this to say of John Orth, the famous pianist, who will come to the South church next Thursday afternoon:

"Mr. Orth is as fine in his fellowships as he is masterful in music. To know him personally, one should know him either in his beautiful home in Brookline, or at a meeting of the Puddingstone club.

"Busy almost beyond description, days with teaching and nights with concert work, yet he has time to prepare lectures upon his great master, which he gives under the title, 'An evening with Liszt,' far and wide, illustrated with selections from great Liszt masterpieces. If you are so fortunate as to be a friend and to catch him with a leisure hour, you would think he had nothing in the world to do but play for his friends and talk Liszt.

"The time is near at hand, if it has not already come, when young men and women will prize being accepted as a student of John Orth, even as he prized being a student with Liszt."

Obituary

MRS. MARY LEAVITT

The following notice from a Boston Sunday paper of the death of Mrs. Mary A. Leavitt is of interest to Andover and North Andover readers as Mrs. Leavitt was well known in both towns.

"Mrs. Mary A. Leavitt, wife of the Rev. Horace H. Leavitt, a retired Congregational minister, for many years pastor of the Broadway Congregational church, Somerville, died last night at her home, 30 Adams street, from ptomaine poisoning. About three weeks ago Mrs. Leavitt, her husband, daughter and maid, were stricken with the poison, but all recovered with the exception of Mrs. Leavitt.

"She was born in Roxbury, March 24, 1853, and was married January 19, 1876, to Mr. Leavitt, while she was a senior in Mt. Holyoke College.

"She went with him to Japan and remained five years. Upon their return, they settled in North Andover, moving from there to Cambridge and thence to Somerville."

ADDRESS ON WATERWAYS

Andrew B. Sutherland Entertains South Church Men's Club with Instructive Talk on Waterways

The South Church Men's club held another of its very successful meetings last Friday evening at the church vestry. The club was very fortunate in securing the services of Andrew B. Sutherland of Lawrence, a prominent member of the Waterway Commission, appointed by last year's Legislature, who talked on the Merrimack Waterway to the seventy-five members present. Mr. Sutherland handled his topic in a very interesting manner, giving conclusive proof of his interest in the subject.

Commencing back several hundred years, he told how the commerce of the world had been vitally affected by inland waterways, citing the rivers, Rhine, Sheldt, among others in Europe and the canals of Holland, France and England. He stated that a large amount of money had been spent to develop each of these waterways, and an enormous development in the trade had accrued therefrom. Mr. Sutherland said that the railroad transportation as compared with water was 6 to 1 in favor of water, which meant that with the deepening of the Merrimack River to an 18 foot channel, a tremendous saving in transportation charges on material shipments would be made to the cities and towns in the Merrimack valley.

Last year the state of Massachusetts appropriated one million dollars toward this project, but as yet the national government had not made any appropriation. The speaker hoped that with the clear case that he and his colleagues in the waterway commission could put before the authorities at Washington that they would be successful by next year.

The waterway commission recommends an 18 foot channel from the state line to the sea with locks at Lawrence, Lowell, and near Bradford. The expense of the undertaking will be about seven million dollars.

After the speaker had concluded a vote of thanks was extended to him by the club. The members then enjoyed an excellent musical program, consisting of solos by Mrs. F. G. Moore, with flute obligato by A. N. Alexander, accompanied by Mr. Moore.

Business consisted of reading of treasurer's and secretary's reports and the electing of thirteen new members. Refreshments were then served.

The membership of the club now numbers about 120 which makes it one of the largest organizations of its kind in this vicinity. The club is always ready to welcome strangers at its meetings and can assure any man who is interested an enjoyable evening.

The regular meetings come on the third Friday of the months of January, February, March, April, May, September, October, and November.

Christ Church Services

Below is given the musical service for Sunday morning and also the program for the first of the special musical services that Choirmaster Michelsen has arranged for during the coming winter. These will be held the last Sunday of each month until Easter and will be especially interesting. The rector will deliver his third talk on religion, the subject being, "Religion in Literature."

The following is the order of service for Sunday morning, October 25:

Organ Prelude "Larghetto" W. A. Mozart
Processional, Hymn 432 J. E. Roe
Venite Du Boyce
Te Deum Laudamus in C G. C. Martin
Benedictus R. Schumann
Introit Hymn 504 B. F. Michelsen
Kyrie Gloria Tibi
Hymn 361 J. Hutton
Offertory Anthem, "What are These?" J. Stainer
Recessional, Hymn 490 F. J. Haydn
Organ Postlude, "Offertory in E flat" L. Wely

The first special musical service at 5 o'clock will be as follows:

Organ Prelude, "Reverie" E. M. Lee
Processional, Hymn 519 H. Coward
Gloria Patri Plainson
Magnificat in E flat H. W. Parker
Nunc Dimittis in E flat H. W. Parker
Hymn 582 G. J. Webb
Offertory Anthem, "The Radiant Morn" Woodward
Recessional, Hymn 520 A. H. Messier
Organ Postlude, "Grand Chorus in D" A. Guilman

These special musical services will be observed on the last Sunday of each month until Easter Sunday.

Police Notes

Fred Sanders and Charles Palmer, two local men, were before Judge Stone on Tuesday evening charged with setting fires without licenses. Their cases were continued.

The police are on the lookout for an Italian who, it is supposed, shot a woman in Lawrence last Wednesday morning. He is described as being a short man about 66 years old with gray hair. A milkman made the discovery of the would-be murderer while on his morning rounds and saw the man leaving the house.

John Burke of this town was injured last Sunday night while crossing Main street near the railroad bridge. He was struck by an automobile and knocked to the ground. The driver stopped his car and went back for Burke, getting him to his home as soon as possible. Medical aid was summoned and it was found that he had received several fractures in his ribs as well as a number of cuts and bruises. His condition, while serious, is not necessarily fatal. The police questioned the driver of the car, who gave his name as Walter Hatch of Lawrence, but found that he was not entirely to blame.

Funds for the Red Cross

The committee which is aiding the women of Andover in providing funds for their Red Cross Work wishes to thank all those who have so generously sent in cash and pledges to a substantial amount. The sum desired has already been reached and there are others to be heard from. Such a prompt and cordial response is most gratifying to the committee and the workers and most creditable to the town. It seems unnecessary to acknowledge receipt of each pledge, but a full account will later be published and due recognition made of each gift.

Should there be any others who desire to contribute, but did not receive a notice, the committee will welcome such subscriptions, however small, in order that everyone may help who cares to do so. Cash may be left with Miss Farmer, at the Townsman office, or sent to the undersigned; and all gifts will be recorded and acknowledged with thanks.

ALFRED L. RIPLEY, Chairman

The committee in charge of the Red Cross Relief have decided to continue the work at the Guild House as at present for two weeks more, thus completing a full month. At the end of this time the 500 articles originally planned will have been completed.

The attendance during the first week was 105 while so far this week it has nearly doubled.

Samples of the 150 articles already finished have been sent to the Headquarters in Boston and have met with hearty approval.

It is planned to resume work after Christmas and in the meantime the same rooms will be used one day each week for work to relieve local needs under the auspices of the Guild.

Owing to the present situation in Europe there will be more suffering in our midst than usual and it is hoped that this call for workers will meet with the same hearty response as that for the destitute abroad.

Andover Home for Aged People

The annual meeting of the directors of the Andover Home for Aged People was held last Tuesday evening. The election of officers and different boards was the principal business of the meeting, and the following persons were elected: President, Frederic S. Boutwell; 1st vice president, Cecil K. Bancroft; 2nd vice president, Miss Ellen G. Ellis; treasurer, David Shaw; clerk, Mrs. M. S. McCurdy; board of managers for three years: Mrs. C. E. Abbott, Mrs. J. W. Smith, Miss Emily Carter, and Mrs. F. H. Wilson; for two years: Mrs. M. W. Stackpole, Mrs. M. E. Jackson; Miss Clara Baldwin, and J. Duke Smith, Esq.; for one year, Mrs. C. A. Middleton, Mrs. Augustus P. Thompson, John D. Holt, and J. H. Campion.

W. R. C. Notes

About seventeen members of the Woman's Relief Corps assisted the Red Cross society by sewing at the Guild house Wednesday afternoon.

The Corps will entertain the Reading Corps next Tuesday. Whist and entertainment in the T. O. F. hall during the afternoon. Supper at 6 o'clock in G. A. R. hall.

Several members visited Needham Corps, Lawrence, Tuesday evening, and enjoyed the inspection of the work of the order.

Abbot Academy Notes

Tuesday afternoon the Antoinette Hall Taylor Infirmary was formally opened with a reception for Mrs. John Phelps Taylor, in whose honor the building was named. Mrs. Taylor, Miss Bailey, and Miss Kelsey received as guests the immediate neighbors of the school and those friends to whose generosity the gift of the Infirmary is due. All expressed much approval of the arrangement of the rooms, the admirable equipment and the tasteful furnishing. Especial interest was shown in the two diet kitchens and in the comfortable, screened-in sun-parlor. The architects—Kendall, Taylor & Co.—seem to have consulted the comfort and convenience of nurses and patients in every particular. The Infirmary has been in use during these first weeks of the term and has already been proved a most delightful place of rest.

The three new tennis courts in the north of the Infirmary have been used constantly since school began. This week the finals of the tennis tournament are to be played.

The school was very glad to welcome back Mr. and Mrs. Stackpole, who took supper at Draper Hall on Sunday evening. Mr. Stackpole's inspiring talk on Honor was followed by an organ recital by Mr. Ashton—the first one of the school year.

On Saturday afternoon, Mr. Ashton gave a very instructive and interesting talk on the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

To-morrow afternoon at half past two, a remarkably fine lecture is to be given in Abbot Hall by a famous graduate of Wellesley, Miss Annie J. Cannon of the Harvard Observatory, a very distinguished astronomer and a member of the Royal Astronomical Society of London, is to give an illustrated talk on "Familiar Stars." Owing to the limited seating capacity of Abbot Hall, an extended invitation cannot be given, but any one especially interested in the subject will be very welcome.

Concert for Red Cross

Tickets are selling rapidly for the concert to be given in Abbot Village hall tonight for the Red Cross relief. Local talent will be well represented and the concert promises to be an exceptionally good one. The following will take part: Miss Annie McEwan, Miss Alice Coutts, Miss Mary Porter, and David Dobbie of South Lawrence, Henry Fairweather, John McDonald and Robert Williams' orchestra will render several selections. Barnett Rogers will act as chairman.

T. W. T. Hallowe'en Social

The Spooks are out early this year. There were two at the South Church T. W. T. club entertainment on Tuesday evening in full regalia and rattling bones. But they seemed friendly enough and the forty or more girls who gathered didn't appear a bit flustered over their graveyard visitors. It was a pleasant social evening and the club increased in membership on account of it, a large number of the invited guests sending in their names to be added to the club's roll. Refreshments were served and various Hallowe'en games, which probably decided more than one fair lassie's fate, were indulged in by a merry group.

Births

In Andover, October 16, a son to Mr. and Mrs. George Cashman.

In Andover, October 18, a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hurwicz.

Death

In Waban, October 19, Elizabeth Walker Morrison (formerly of Ballardvale), aged 83 years, 6 months.

Guild Notes

One hundred thirty-two girls and boys have registered this first week of class work, and still they come. The boys' gymnasium classes are about as full as comfort will allow although a few more could be taken into the senior class. Mr. Alexander Murray, who carried these classes through last year to such a successful finish is the instructor again this year. The bowling promises to be as attractive as ever, under the supervision of David May. The boys are planning to form a Guild team to play with outside teams. This will be a new feature.

The game room, too, is a very lively place on boys' nights. In fact, any night this past week would have convinced the most indifferent observer that the Andover boys and girls are glad Guild is open and that they entered to make the most of all that is offered.

Tuesday night thirty-seven girls assembled, most of them for their favorite sport, basket-ball, under the leadership of their favorite coach, Miss Armstrong. The girls have evidently begun the year determined to work hard to bring up to the standard of their team this year.

Wednesday night witnessed a most auspicious beginning of the business class. Twenty-five quiet, earnest boys and girls met for a preliminary examination in arithmetic, written and oral, spelling and composition. Miss Spaulding, a teacher in the Stowe school, is to be the very efficient teacher of this class.

The Intermediate department, organized this year for girls of fourteen and fifteen who work, is evidently, from the interest already aroused, to be an assured fact. Tonight the girls meet for organization and class-work for them begins next week.

The junior girls have been filling their classes well, too. Last Saturday fifty little girls met for sewing, under the leadership of Miss Sara Blunt and four assistants, the Misses Abbott, Wade and Stack. The older girls of the class are helping with the Red Cross sewing.

Two classes in junior cooking have begun with Miss Ruth Whiting as teacher. This is always a popular class and it is thought there will be four classes in all.

Their gymnasium class begins this afternoon with the same teacher, Miss Faith Doty, who did such splendid work with them last year.

Other classes are still forming which promise to be as popular and well filled as these already mentioned.

A request from the Rummage Sale committee is made for all old clothing which still has wearing qualities. Any such articles will be received at the Guild. The first Rummage sale will be held early in November.

Christ Church Notes

The Girls' Friendly Society of Christ Church will meet on Monday in the Parish House at 7:30 P.M. The branch from North Andover are to be guests, and the entertainment of the evening will be a Hallowe'en party.

St. Catherine's Guild elected as officers the following: President, Nan Sellars; vice president, Eleanor Swenson; secretary, Dorothy Sleath; treasurer, Mary Watson. The next meeting will be on Tuesday at 3:45 in the Parish house of Christ church.

The Knights of King Arthur will hold a regular meeting in the Parish house of Christ Church, on Thursday at 7:30. Rev. Allan Greene of Peabody will be present. This club is renewing life in good shape.

The subject of the address by the rector at the monthly musical service in Christ church on Sunday will be "Religion in Literature."

ANDOVER CONFERENCE

Fall Meeting of Ministers and Churches to be Held at North Andover Tuesday.

The fall meeting of the Andover Association of Congregational Churches and Ministers will be held on Tuesday, October 27th, at the Trinitarian church, North Andover. An especially interesting program has been prepared for the sessions which will be held at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and at 7:15 in the evening. At 6 o'clock a collation will be served at the usual price of 25 cents.

The devotional service in the afternoon will be presided over by Rev. Newman Matthews, of the West church. C. B. Baldwin and William Shaw will speak on "Where shall our Churches put the Emphasis in their Work?" In the evening Rev. F. A. Wilson will have charge of the praise service and an interesting address will be given by Prof. John Winthrop Platner, D. D., of the Andover Theological Seminary, Cambridge, on the Religious Conditions in the Far East.

Each church is entitled to send five delegates besides the pastor and Sunday School superintendent and all members of churches are invited to be present and take part in the exercises. The committee of arrangements is Rev. A. F. Dunnels of Lowell; A. B. Sutherland, of Lawrence; Rev. F. A. Wilson, of this town; and Rev. J. L. Keedy of North Andover.

The complete program follows:

Work of the Street Department

The work on Harding street from the railroad bridge to High street has been completed, curbing having been put on both sides and a tarry-bound road built from curb to curb. The sidewalks have been greatly improved by the curbing. On Chandler road a gang of men are at work grading a stretch of about 500 feet near the residence of Mr. Wilcox. Hidden road is being improved by filling in from Main street to Mr. Bassett's house. This filling is of ashes which will be rolled and covered with a blanket of Red Spring gravel. A great many holes in the different streets are being filled with this gravel, a fine lot of it having been found at the pit on Red Spring road.

RALLIES NEXT WEEK

Governor Walsh and State Treasurer Mansfield at Town Hall. Republican Rally, Friday, Oct. 30.

Only ten more days until election day. The political campaign this fall has been extremely quiet and little interest is shown in the coming State election. What the reason is, is hard to explain, but it is generally supposed that the attention of the public is taken up just now with the European war.

Very little campaigning has been done in Andover by the various candidates for political honors, and indications point to a moderate vote at the polls. The candidates for Representative perhaps have been doing more political work than any of the other candidates for office and each will depend on the loyalty of his friends to help to a successful result.

Very few campaign speeches have been made in town. On Tuesday evening J. Joseph O'Connor, candidate for Congress from Lowell, talked to a small audience in the square. His main argument centered on the personal wealth and business connections of his opponent, Hon. John Jacob Rogers. He wished to impress on the voters the fact that he had been a hard working man all his life and what money he had accumulated was earned by the sweat of his brow. This evening at 7:45, William J. Cronin, Democratic candidate for representative will speak at an open-air rally in Elm square in conjunction with John J. Cuddy, Jr., of Lawrence, the Democratic candidate for senator.

The Republican Town committee has arranged for a closing rally in the Town hall for next Friday evening, October 30, at which time Mr. Rogers will speak.

Next Wednesday evening the Democrats will hold a rally in the town hall at which Governor Walsh and State Treasurer Mansfield will speak. Other speakers are Candidates Cuddy and Cronin, and it is hoped J. Joseph O'Connor of Lowell will also be present. The Governor will come from Lowell and will speak some time during the evening. The public is cordially invited, the gallery being reserved for ladies.

J. W. There was another initiation, the direct result of the "Membership Contest." The entertainment of the evening took the form of a box party. This action was a part of the campaign of State Attorney Hoyne to get evidence against police officials and detectives whom he accuses of participating in the booty of criminals.

The order for the raid was issued on authority of the grand jury, which body also demanded the presence of John J. Halpin, chief of detectives, and James H. Markham, secretary of the detective bureau.

STAR WITNESS
IN CARMAN CASE

Testifies That Doctor's Wife Admitted Shooting

HAD REVOLVER IN HER HAND

Maid in Home of Accused Woman Tells Damaging Story of Scene When Mrs. Bailey Was Killed—Says She Was Asked Not to Tell—Conflicts With Previous Statement

"I shot him," around these three words—uttered, according to Celia Coleman, negro maid, by Mrs. Florence Carman on the night Mrs. Bailey was shot to death in Dr. Carman's office—hinges the whole case of the state against the doctor's wife, now on trial for her life at Mineola, L. I.

The Coleman girl took the stand and swore Mrs. Carman made that statement when she entered the kitchen with a revolver in her hand a minute or two, the negro maid swore, after the fatal shot was fired. It was apparent the state's contention is that the wife shot at her husband.

While Mrs. Carman sat rigid and immobile a few feet away, the maid told how the doctor's wife, after entering the kitchen, walked into the physician's office where the dead woman was lying on the floor. Mrs. Carman still held the revolver in her hand, the girl insisted. She had it concealed under a white shawl she wore over a kimono, according to the maid.

Mrs. Carman looked at Carman kneeling over the body of the slain woman, the girl said. The doctor's wife, still grasping the revolver, stayed in the room but a minute, according to the witness, going out by the way of the waiting room.

Mrs. Carman did not say anything more to her, the girl said, when she entered the kitchen. Asked by District Attorney Smith whether she thought Mrs. Carman had killed her husband when she said: "I shot him," the maid answered that she didn't know whom she had shot. She said that neither Mrs. Carman nor Dr. Carman said a word while she was in the office where the dead woman was lying.

Continuing, the witness said Mrs. Carman came to her room the next morning before it was time for her to get up. "She told me," testified the maid, "that she hoped God would forgive her. She told me she would take care of my little boy as long as he lived if anything ever happened to me. She asked me not to say anything about what had happened."

Celia Coleman testified on cross examination that when she was being brought from Freeport to Mineola to go before the grand jury, Dr. Carman told her not to change her testimony and that he "would take care of her."

Mrs. Carman, she continued, gave her an extra $5 a few days after the murder. "That is for keeping your mouth shut," the witness said Mrs. Carman told her.

Frank Farrell corroborated Celia Coleman. Celia said her mistress was dressed in a flowing dark silk kimono when she passed through the kitchen a few seconds before the crash of glass and the shot. Farrell says he saw a woman so attired firing the shot.

Attorney Graham scored a big surprise on the state when he introduced a statement made by the Coleman girl in a private investigation on July 13, in which she contradicted nearly everything she testified yesterday. Graham read the statement just before adjournment for lunch.

SOCCER

Andover 5 Olympics 1

Andover triumphed over the much-heralded Olympic team last Saturday, 5 goals to 1. The United showed their best form this season and outclassed the visitors in all departments, giving them their first defeat and incidentally taking the lead in the Lawrence and Lowell district league. The game was replete with thrills, with not a dull moment from start to finish. Andover won because it was the better-balanced team, each man doing his part well, but above all stood out the playing of Joe Black; it was brilliant.

Despite the rain of the morning there was a good attendance and the pitch was in good condition when Page set the ball in motion. Andover was quickly on the move and McArdle had to save twice, Skea finally forcing a corner. Cairnie missed an early opening and Butler cleared, the ball traveled to the visitors' right and a high pass was completely missed by Jackson; Dundas at once closed in and lost no time in scoring. Nothing daunted by the success of the visitors, Andover worked the ball down and Page equalized from a pass by Deyernmond. Shortly afterwards Dave again beat McArdle, this time after clever work by Cairnie who placed the ball for the center forward.

Dundas and Black were delighting the crowd with several good tussles in which the halfback had the better of the argument. J. Deyernmond had a miraculous save, a low shot from McKay, while stretched full length on the goal line. Play was evenly divided for the remainder of the half. Andover 2, Olympics 1.

On resuming the visitors at once became aggressive. Haddon drove over, Elliot got a chance but could not finish. At the other end Page had a try and Cairnie volleyed the ball in the goalmouth, but McArdle was alert. The visitors lost a chance when after a good run by Dundas, McKay lifted high over from right in front of goal. Joe Black drew a cheer from the crowd with a noble effort which scraped the crossbar. Little time was spent in midfield play, all being hustle to score goals. McArdle had to stop another from Page while Elliot's shot at the other end sailed over the bar. At last Dundas got away and turned in a pretty run, but as soon as he parted with the ball Jackson cleared. The Olympics had shot their bolt, Andover gradually took things into their own hands and the visitors' defense cracked under the pressure. Haddon handled in the goal area, Rae took the penalty and scored. Scarcely had the play started again when Skea shot a low pass across; Cairnie quickly netted the ball for the fourth goal. Andover forced a corner and Black capped his brilliant performance by scoring with a long-range shot which the custodian touched but could not save. Final score, Andover 5, Olympics 0.

Andover—J. Deyernmond; Rae and Jackson; Coleman, Downs and Black; W. Deyernmond, Cairnie, Page, Doherty and Skea.

Olympics—McArdle; Andrews and Butler; Adams, Haddon and Roberts; Dundas, McKay, Gilmartin, Elliot and Butterworth.

The undefeated Andover team will play Lawrence at Glenn Essex this week in the qualifying round of the National Cup competition. After the success of last week the team will go, accompanied by a large following, confidently expecting another victory. The lineup will be the same as last week.

FOOTBALL

Punchard Won

The Punchard High School football team defeated the Pinkerton Academy eleven of Derry, N. H., by the score of 19 to 0, in a game played on the local playground last Friday afternoon. The visitors outweighed Punchard to some extent, but the local team outclassed them in all departments of the game.

On account of the rain and the soggy condition of the field, the players found it difficult to handle punts and keep their feet.

WILBUR

Quaint sayings of William Hodge in his big play success, "The Road to Happiness," now in its seventh week at the Wilbur theatre:

"You can't help trouble with tears: tears help trouble just the way water helps flowers."

"Courage—confidence in the truth—this makes the road to success."

"Let 'em roast. While they're roasting in 'em they're lettin' somebody else cool off."

"What difference does it make who has all the money, so long as everybody's happy? Cheerfulness is better than money. You might lose your money, but you can keep on bein' cheerful, if you only keep up hope."

"Worry makes the heart ache harder."

"Old Father Time is the only sure-fire detective in the world."

"Let it rain; it'll make the ducks and the flowers happy."

"Squeeze your mind and press on your heart and see what your tongue will do."

BOSTON THEATRE

The phenomenal success of the Boston Theatre Opera Company, particularly from an artistic standpoint, has attracted the cooperation of a number of public-spirited citizens to the extent that the management is now pleased to announce a substantial reduction in the price of seats below the already nominal scale which has ruled since the opening. This reduction will mean that two dollars will be the highest price charged, while twenty-five cents will be the lowest, thereby furnishing opportunity of hearing grand opera for even less than is ordinarily charged for light and comic opera. A number of genuine novelties have been arranged for the coming week. To begin with, on Monday evening, "La Favorita" will be offered for the first time by any permanent opera company in Boston. It will be repeated again on Wednesday matinee. On Wednesday evening and Saturday matinee, Puccini's "La Tosca" will be given for the first time in Boston at popular prices. Ramon Blanchard, the popular baritone of last season at the Boston Opera House, will sing Thursday evening in "Un Ballo in Maschera," and Miriam Ardini, the sweet-voiced soprano who has become a favorite with the attendants of the present opera season will sing the part of Oscar, the page. On Friday evening, "Cavalleria Rusticana" will be produced, with Miss Gentile, the Pacific Coast soprano, Miss Sappin, Gallazzi and Sacchetti, to be followed by "I Pagliacci," with Dora de Philippe as Nedda, a part which she has portrayed in leading opera companies throughout the world; Picco, Castellani, Giuliani and Silva will also appear on this evening. Another popular opera will be produced Saturday evening when "Lucia di Lammermoor" will be given with Miss Ardini in the part of Lucia and Miss Renis as Alice, and Sacchetti, Gallazzi, Giuliani and di Biasi. An operatic concert will be given Sunday evening for which the prices are 25c, 50c, and 75c, popular arias from operas being rendered by leading artists of the company.

CORT

Oliver Morosco's international triumph, "Peg o' My Heart," celebrated the fiftieth performance of its engagement at the Cort theatre Monday night. All Boston and suburbs are flocking to the beautiful Park Square playhouse.

"Hank," the well-known writer recently reviewed "Peg" in this style:

"Whist! All me lady-bucks. Say, have you seen 'Peg o' My Heart'? She's the sweetest colleen! No truer mate could be had for a bye; sure an you're lost when ye look in her eye.

"'Peg o' My Heart' is a bit of a miss, cheeks like an apple, and mouth made to kiss. Goes over to England across the gray sea, where they inform her a lady she'll be."

"Och, then, begorra, the trouble comes croppin'. Peg and her Jerry one night go a-hoppin' off to a dance for to shake foot and leg. Dyin' for fun is our darlint young Peg."

"Neither return till the break o' the day, then, wurra, worra, the divvil's to pay. But, as we know right away from the start everything ends well for 'Peg o' My Heart'."

HOLLIS

There seems to be no doubt that dainty Frances Starr has completely captured Boston theatre-goers in her engrossing impersonation of Gabrielle Jannelot in "The Secret," which is current at the Hollis Street theatre, Boston. Miss Starr plays the role of a girl brought up in the highly sophisticated society of the fashionable French city, Deauville, whose mind is poisoned by an all-consuming jealousy; she cannot endure to see others contented and smiling unless this happiness is due to herself and her influence. She is a beautiful, charming, lovable woman, idyllically happy in her married life and possessing youth, social prestige and all that ease and luxury that attend a woman in her situation of life. She is jealous only of happiness. A typical Belasco cast is seen in the support of Miss Starr, the principal roles being taken by Robert Warwick, Montagu Love, Frank Reicher, Elaine Inescourt, and Harriet Otis Dellonbaugh. Matinees will be given Wednesday and Saturday.

Coming to the Hollis Street theatre beginning Monday, November 2, is an offering which in novelty and appeal promises to be one of the most attractive housed by that playhouse in several seasons. It is Lydia Lopokova in "The Young Idea." Under the management of Harrison Grey Fiske, she is now entering the dramatic field, where her wonderful personality and magnetism should find far greater opportunity than in her former, great as her triumphs there had been. The play chosen for her dramatic debut is said to be a most laughable comedy, in which Miss Lopokova shines not only as a comedienne but, for a few fleeting moments, as the same diaphanous vision of loveliness and grace that she formerly did as a dancer.

Obituary

MRS. MORRISON

The funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth Walker Morrison, widow of John Morrison, and for more than forty years a resident of Ballardvale, who died at the home of her daughter in Waban, October 18, at the age of eighty-three years, was held Wednesday, burial being in the Spring Grove cemetery beside her husband who died in 1878. The deceased was born in Droylsden, Lancashire, England, but came to this country when nine years of age, with five other sisters and four brothers, two of whom were killed in the battle of Bull Run.

Rev. Augustus H. Fuller, pastor of the Ballardvale Congregational church, of which the deceased was a communicant, officiated, assisted by Rev. James Clement Sharp, rector of the Church of the Good Shepherd of Waban.

She is survived by one son, John W. Morrison, and three daughters—Mrs. Charles Madden of Wheeling, W. Va., Mrs. William Parrish of Roslyn Farms, Pa., and Mrs. Edward A. Alder of Waban.

Until the last two years she had enjoyed her accustomed health and vigor, her declining years brightened by the devotion of seven grandchildren.

Her closing days, though ended in pain and suffering, only served to bring out in stronger relief the sweetness, patience and faith that characterized her life. A concourse of friends at Waban and Ballardvale attested the affection which these qualities inspired in all with whom she came in contact throughout her long life.

Surprise Party

A surprise party was tendered Mr. and Mrs. Leverett White at their home on Chester street last Saturday evening. There were twenty-six friends and relatives present. Rev. James King in a few well-chosen words presented the couple, in behalf of those present, with a solid silver berry spoon, a solid silver butter knife, and a beautiful puff. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Leverett White, Mr. and Mrs. George Clemens, Mr. and Mrs. James King, Mrs. Allan Simpson, Mrs. Annie Colbath, Mrs. Emma Moody, Mrs. Prudence Brown, Mrs. F. H. Wells, Mrs. Nelson Townsend, Misses Jane Hudson, Hattie and Annie Kibbee, Louise and Alice Coates, Helena Wells, Gertrude Stark, and Messrs. Kenneth Kibbee, Robert Clemens, Henry Colbath, John Howell, Samuel Moody, Harold Stark, and Harold Wells.

Golden Anniversary

To the chime of golden bells the children and grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Matthews of Marland road wended their way on Tuesday evening to the parental home to exchange hearty greetings and warm congratulations to the aged parents on this the golden anniversary of their marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. Matthews were married in Oxford, Mass., October 20, 1864. After a few years' residence in that town they removed to Ballardvale where Mr. Matthews was installed foreman of the spinning department of the Ballardvale Mills, a position he filled for more than forty years. At the age of seventy-two he retired from active service to spend his declining years in the quiet shade of the home, surrounded with shrubs and fragrant flowers, which he had previously purchased, and which was formerly owned and occupied as a parsonage by Rev. Henry S. Greene, organizer of the Union Congregational church and its settled pastor for twenty-five years. Mr. Matthews' senior deacon of this church.

The anniversary consisted of an informal gathering of the immediate family circle which comprises four sons: Thomas A., superintendent of Ballardvale Mills; William E., Clester E., and Foster A. Matthews; and one daughter, Mrs. Converse F. Parker; and a brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Call of Clinton. Nine grandchildren were in evidence and added much to the enjoyment of the social hour and aided materially in relieving the well-filled tables of the bountiful supply of good things prepared for the collation.

Tendered Surprise Party

Over twenty of the Ladies' Aid friends of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Abbott tendered them a surprise party at their new home on Marland road on Monday evening. They presented them with a handsome fern and jardiniere. Refreshments were served and a pleasant evening was enjoyed by all present.

Union Meeting

There was a large and appreciative audience at the Congregational church at 7 o'clock Sunday evening. Rev. A. H. Fuller and Rev. James King presided over the meeting. A representative from the W. C. T. U., which has been holding its annual session in Lawrence, Mrs. Etta G. Luce, superintendent of temperance instruction, was the speaker of the evening. She spoke with great power and enthusiasm on the work of the organization and the bright outlook for national prohibition in the near future.

Anniversary of Electric Light

Thirty-five years ago this month Thomas A. Edison produced the first successful incandescent electric lamp in his laboratory at Menlo Park, N. J.

In 1880 an employee of the Edison factory carried all the incandescent electric lamps in the world from Menlo Park to New York City in a market basket on his arm. A year later it was considered a wonderful feat when the small factory turned out a thousand lamps a day. Today the great Edison lamp factory at Harrison turns out 35,000 lamps an hour and has made more than 5,000,000,000.

Back in Andover After Sixty Years

This was the experience of a visitor in town last week—Dea. John Frye Stearns, a native of Lowell, Maine, but a descendant in former generations of Stearns and Frye and Abbot families of this region. Working hard on his father's farm till after he was twenty-one years old, he came to Phillips Academy in 1851, rooming first in the Latin Commons, with board at Mrs. Clough's, afterward at Mrs. David Holt's, on the site of the present Free Church. In his (junior) class were boys whose names are familiar—Samuel W. Abbott, John Albee, Samuel C. Beane, Edwin S. Beard, Robert R. Bishop, Isaac N. Carleton, Edward Lord Clark, George W. W. Dove, Charles Lee Foster (North Andover), William A. Mowry, William E. Park, Francis G. Sanborn, Thomas G. Valpey. In the two classes above him were William G. Goldsmith, George Higgins (not our town clerk), Francis H. Johnson, Moses Merrill, Alfred O. Johnson, Joseph Kimball, David Smith. In the English Department, below him, were seven Abbotts, Alfred L. Aiken, George Allen, James R. Bailey, Henry J. Barnard, George Boutwell, Henry Boynton, Thaddeus H. Brown, Joseph and Thomas Burt, Joseph Byers, Sumner Carruth, Milton Chickering, Josiah Clough, Joseph B. Cogswell, Benjamin A. Farnham, Henry Flint, Benjamin and John Frye, George L. Galishan, Jeremiah Goldsmith, Dean and E. Francis Holt, Sylvester Lovejoy, William Marland, William Pierce, Kirk Rand, Albert E. Richardson, John L. Smith, George W. Stevens, George H. Taylor, James E. Taylor, John Phelps Taylor. This partial list will show how many Andover boys were in the academy sixty years ago.

After one year in Phillips Mr. Stearns ended his course, so that his younger brother, Benjamin Franklin, might have a better chance, and became a clerk in the furniture store of Henry F. Barnard in the old railroad station on Essex street, now the Colonial Theatre, remaining there three years. This gave him an increased acquaintance with the people of the town, so that as he came up from the station, and as afterward he walked through the principal streets, he constantly recalled old houses and old families—the Valpeys, Whittiers, Chickering, Mr. Draper's printing office on the Hill, Swetts, Swifts, Ellises, John and Peter Smith, Edward Taylor, T. A. Holt, Dea. Albert Abbott, the Hill storekeeper and fine singer at the old South, etc., etc. He remembered the personality and the preaching of Professors Park and Phelps, and attending the funeral service of Prof. Bela B. Edwards. He recalled especially how he with other young men used to meet for a little prayer meeting in a small room in Swift's store, opposite the furniture store, next to Squire Foster's office—and John L. Smith took him upstairs and showed him exactly where the room was! He remembered attending at the South Church the Bible class of Hon. John Aiken—who always brought his Greek testament into the class—also the invitation given to the young men to spend a social evening at the teacher's home, and he was very glad to call at the old homestead in grateful memory of that long-ago kindness.

Mr. Stearns after leaving Andover went to Biddeford, Me., and later into the furniture business in Saco, which he continued for over fifty years. He remembered very well "Mel Day," as a bright, good boy in Biddeford, and was much interested in seeing his portrait in the academy office, as a princely benefactor of Phillips. Dea. Stearns, although eighty-six years young, is in good health and resides with his son, Rev. Edward R. Stearns of Concord, N. H., a graduate of Andover Seminary in 1884.

Senator Johnson for Congress

Senator Charles Cabot Johnson should be supported for Congress. He is by all odds the man of the hour for wage earners in this district. Their work has been seriously interfered with by the acts of Congress voted for by Mr. Phelan.

It is not so much Mr. Phelan as the Democratic party, which counts in Congress. Personalities have no weight in the Democratic party. The south runs the party, and that section of the country has done everything possible to wreck New York and New England industries. Democrats have worked their spite rather than reason, and on all important measures Mr. Phelan has voted with the Democrats.

Mr. Phelan voted for free shoes and free trade, which cut the revenue to such an extent that the war taxes have had to be imposed, not on account of the war, but by reason of Democratic inefficiency in conducting the public affairs.

Mr. Phelan and other Democrats tell us that the war taxes have been made necessary by the European war. Such is not the case, and talk in this direction is a delusion and a snare. The deficiency in the public treasury existed before the war started and is due to the nonsensical treatment of the revenue idea by the Democrats who never knew and cannot learn, how to run the government. It was the case when the Democrats last controlled Congress. They have appropriated $160,000,000 more than the last Republican Congress, and they were elected on an "economy" platform.

Congressman Phelan is responsible by his vote for the reduction in the revenue and the loss of business to New England and other sections of the country. The south has not suffered except in the sugar industry. Mr. Phelan voted to cut out the $60,000,000 sugar tax, which everybody paid and nobody felt. This is a good sample of Democratic asininity, and shows their utter inability to conduct the government.

This is not an individual matter. Mr. Phelan is a thoroughly respectable and amiable gentleman, but he belongs to the wrong party when the welfare of the wage-earners of this district is concerned. He voted at all times with the Democratic party and that organization is against the industrial interests of New England and has done its best to throttle and kill the shoe, cotton and scores of other great industries in this section of the country. The vote of Mr. Phelan and other Democrats tells the story.

Senator Charles Cabot Johnson will vote and act with the Republican party, and that means for the best interests of the shoemakers, mill operatives, and scores of other industrial workers in this congressional district. When you vote for congressman you vote for a party rather than the individual.

The Republican party believes in sustaining the industries and not blocking them by free importations from foreign countries. The Democrats believe free trade lowers prices. This is not the case. Free trade invariably increases prices and destroys industries at the same time.

If wage-earners decide to support the Democratic party they are not entitled to charity or consideration when they find themselves minus employment.

Vote for the Republican candidate for Congress. Vote for Charles Cabot Johnson and you will be doing the best thing possible to insure rest and permanence for this great industrial district.

What the industries most need is a respite from Democratic legislation, which means death to payrolls.—The Lynn Review.

From a Drummer's Joke Book

"About the rawest roast on the reubens that I know of," said a Bleeker street wholesale clothing drummer. "I ran across in Indiana not long ago, and Indiana is a State where education simply grows on the trees. I won't mention the town, but it has about 1500 population, and I have one good customer there, which is an indication of intelligence.

"Well, into this town about a month before I arrived on the scene and heard the sad tale a man from Chicago appeared with a trunk full of suit patterns for men and went around town selling them at $2 a pattern, a price that caught the reubens in great shape, and the man sold out in a day. He told each purchaser that the firm's representative who took measures would come along in a day or two and for 50 cents apiece would take their measures and carry the cloth along to be made up by the firm in the latest city styles for $2 a suit, making the entire cost only $4.50.

"It was a cinch, and no mistake, and even if the measuring man never showed up they had the patterns. But the man showed up and took the measures for 50 cents each and the $2 for making. He also took the cloth away with him to be made up, and that was the last seen of the clothing combination.

"It looks too easy to be true, doesn't it? But it isn't, and the funny part of these swindles is that the easier they are, the less trouble they are to work off."—The New York Sun.
